[Original.] Mrs. Seguine, a young widow, would not travel in a sleeping car. She was teo refined to think of going to bed in the same car with other persons, especially men. She had always been a model of purity. At sixteen on attempting to ride the pony of a young friend and admirer she had fallen and displayed considerable lingerie. There were passengers preferring berths. In the chair next to Mrs. Seguine ant a young man of perhaps twenty, a meek looking fellow, with a timid manner. Opposite sat a gentleman who was passing the middle point in his threescore and ten years-s well dressed looking person, evidently of the highest type of American gentleman. He occupied himself reading a magazine of the dry as dust and good English kind and was quite well bred enough not to look at pretty Mrs. Seguine when she was stealing glances at him from under her

The porter came along, and the lady asked him to turn the lights a little lower, since she never could sleep except in a dark room. The porter complied with her request, but as he did not turn them low enough the gentleman opposite Mrs. Seguine, who had hear her request, gave him a coin to turif them lower. The widow witnessed the transfer of the coin and was grateful. This time the porter left very little light in the car, and those who had remained awake slumbered.

Suddenly all were aroused by a shrick. The lamp nearest the widow had been turned so low that it had gone out. The shrick seemed to come from her direction, and to her all eyes were turned, though imperfectly penetrating the gloom. The widow arose and, turning to the young man beside her, said indignantly:

Do You Want to Know

There is a growing sentiment in this country is favor of MEDICINES OF ENOWN COMPOSITION. It is but natural that one should have some interest in the composition of that which he or she is expected to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growth to swallow, whether it be food, drink or medicine.

Recognizing this growing disposition on the part of the public, and satisfied that the fullest publicity can only add to the well-earned reputation of his medicines. Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., has "taken time by the forelock," as it were, and is publishing broadcast a list of all the ingredients entering into his leading medicines, the "Golden Medical Discovery" the popular liver invigorator, stomach tonic, blood purifier and heart regulator, also of his "Favorite Prescription" for weak, over-worked, brokendown, nervous and invalid women.

This bold and out-speken movement on the part of Dr. Pierce, has, by showing exactly what his well-known medicines are composed of, completely disarmed all harping crities who have heretofore unjustly attacked them. A little pamphlet has been compiled, from the standard medical authorities of all the several schools of practice, showing the strongest endorsements by ler ding medical writers of the several ingredients which enter into Dr. Pierce's medicines.
